Patricia Nelson-Reade, R.N.

Certified Elder Law Attorney

Patricia Nelson-Reade dedicates her practice to elder law, and planning for persons with disabilities, with particular emphasis on trust, estate and tax planning, long term care planning, special needs planning, and personal injury settlement management. In her over twenty years of practice in the area of elder law, Patti is well known for her novel and unique solutions to each client's particular situation.

Patti is a certified elder law attorney by the National Elder Law Foundation (CELA), and is also a member of the Special Needs Alliance, the premiere national organization of select lawyers working on special needs planning for individuals with disabilities and their families. Since 2007 Patti has been selected each year by her peers for inclusion in the Best Lawyers in America and has also been recognized each year as a "Super Lawyer" by the New England Super Lawyers publication for her work in elder law. Patti was also named in the 2010 Inaugural Edition of the U.S. News Best Lawyers and Best Law Firms and in each year since then. Patti started the Law Office of Patricia A. Nelson-Reade in the Spring of 1994 and in January of 2011 incorporated as the Nelson-Reade Law Office, P.C.

Patti graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing from the University of North Florida and enjoyed being a nurse for seven years before deciding to attend law school. Patti graduated first in her class from the University of Maine School of Law in 1988, where she was editor-in-chief of the Maine Law Review. After graduation from law school, Patti was selected for a clerkship to the Maine Supreme Judicial Court.

Patti is a member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, Maine Elder Law Section of the Maine Bar Association, the Special Needs Alliance. When not advocating for the needs of her clients, Patti enjoys traveling, biking, long walks on the beach, and spending time with her husband and three children.

Kate Geoffroy

Certified Elder Law Attorney

Kate Geoffroy dedicates her practice to elder law and estate planning, including guardianships, conservatorships, Medicaid planning, long term care planning, and probate matters. Katie enjoys working closely with her clients to ease them through often complicated and difficult issues, and has a special interest in helping families resolve disputed issues without judicial intervention.

Katie is a certified elder law attorney by the National Elder Law Foundation (CELA). Katie is also a member of the Elder Law Section of the Maine Bar Association and the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys. She speaks often to community groups on issues concerning estate and long term care planning.

Prior to joining the firm, Katie was an attorney with Pierce Atwood for 15 years. Katie holds a B.S. degree in Biology from Yale University (1980) and a J.D. cum laude (1988) from Boston College Law School, where she was an editor of the Boston College Law Review. After graduating from law school, Katie received the high honor of being selected for clerkship with Chief Justice Vincent McKusick of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court.

Katie enjoys spending time with her family in her off the grid camp in northern Maine, cross-country skiing, and adding humor and wit to all that she does.

Jennifer Frank

Jennifer Frank practices in the area of elder law, including estate and long term care planning, public benefits planning, personal injury settlement management, and probate. She has a special interest in advocating for the needs and interests of her clients, and enjoys designing plans that meet her clients specific needs and goals.

Jennifer is a member of the Elder Law Section of the Maine Bar Association and the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys. She serves on the Continuing Legal Education committee for the Maine Bar Association and has been a planning committee member and faculty member for the Maine Elder Law and Estate Planning Institute. Jennifer also served on a subcommittee of the Probate and Trust Law Advisory Commission (PATLAC) tasked with reviewing and revising the Maine Probate Code. She speaks regularly in the community and for professional organizations regarding elder law and estate planning issues.

Prior to joining the Nelson-Reade Law Office in 2008, Jennifer was the managing attorney for a mass tort litigation firm where she practiced for 15 years.

Jennifer received her Bachelor of Science degree from Boston University and her Juris Doctor from Golden Gate University School of Law with a special certificate in public interest law. Jennifer lives in Pownal, Maine and enjoys hiking and backpacking with her family in the Maine wilderness.
